Re: White House Correspondents

THE PRESIDENT HAS SEEN.

AT THE SWIMMING POOL
White House Correspondents Group
July 5, 1977

FRED BARNES - Washington Star

He wrote last Friday that Carter switched twice on the B-1 before deciding to halt production. While never really deciding to approve production, Carter lost and then regained his campaign distaste for the bomber. Barnes also wrote that Richard Harden may have reorganized himself out of a job close to the President.

Barnes has been chosen a Nieman Fellow and will spend the next year at Harvard.

Barnes is relatively young and aggressive. He was fairly tough on Ford, and is only slightly less so on us.

ED BRADLEY - CBS

You know him. He flips back and forth about his happiness in being here, often being bothered by the strict ranking of correspondents, with the number one (Bob Schieffer in the case of CBS) getting to do the best pieces each time. Bradley is number two, with Bob Pierpoint three. Has said how much he misses chance "just to talk" with you on several occasions.

ED BRADLEY - CBS

You know him. He flips back and forth about his happiness in being here, often being bothered by the strict ranking of correspondents, with the number one (Bob Schieffer in the case of CBS) getting to do the best pieces each time. Bradley is number two, with Bob Pierpoint three. Has said how much he misses chance "just to talk" with you on several occasions.

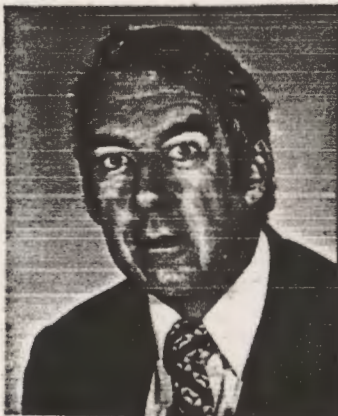

DON CAMPBELL - Gannett

Fairly young reporter who is one of the least confident of the group. He has climbed rapidly, is relatively moody, and is often torn in different directions by the desires for coverage of the many editors in the rapidly-growing Gannett chain. Many of his colleagues in the Washington bureau have recently been tapped to become editors of the chain's papers. Likes the more relaxed down-home style of the Administration.

RAYMOND R. COFFEY - Chicago Daily News
Washington Bureau Chief

He was for many years the London Bureau Chief for the Chicago Daily News, and this is his first assignment back from there. While in London, he took an English wife, and when you were in England, was reunited with them, and stayed behind to move them here. If you become engaged in small talk with him, you may want to note that the government is pleased that it was able to provide him with the excuse for a free trip back to London.

FRANK CORMIER - Associated Press

As is evident from his book on the subject, he was quite fond of President Johnson, and evidently looks back on that period as his hey-day. He's a very genial, fair person.

SAM DONALDSON - ABC

You know him. Has been engrossed of lately with the machinations of ABC, which is expected to undergo big changes with Roone Arlredge as President. Donalson is expected to come out of it in good shape, but is nonetheless correctly self-interested.

DENNIS FARNEY - Wall Street Journal

He wrote in an analysis last week that the Republican strategists who want to beat Carter in 1980 are having as hard a time as anyone figuring Carter out. This "suggests that Carter is on to the beginning of an effective political strategy."

Farney, originally from Kansas, is a bright, young "up and comer" at the Wall Street Journal, is low key and an excellent writer. Because of the interests of his paper, he files relatively little "day to day" material, and instead collects information towards longer, overview pieces. The Journal will shortly start to do profiles on top members of the administration -- having held off until now so that they could establish a track record.

BOB JAMIESON - NBC

He has very much looked forward to meeting with you on an informal basis. He has drawn a large salary and been a success in the television business since 25 -- mainly in Chicago, which he still considers home. Jamieson has treated us very fairly and seems to basically like you.

SAUL KOHLER - Newhouse

He wrote recently that Carter has surprised many Washingtonians by actually being funny in a number of after-dinner speeches here. Kohler covers regular day-to-day news, and sprinkles them with such as the above. He worked for a long time for papers in Pennsylvania, seems favorably disposed towards you. Was Jackson fan during campaign.

CHARLIE MOHR - New York Times

He wrote in an analysis last week that the B-1 decision shows "vividly" that Carter is "a pragmatist not bound by ideology and an atypical politician who seems to prefer the role of manager."

He also said the B-1 decision, which he was obviously happy with, was a start towards meeting the criticism of style over substance. You are familiar with his background.

HELEN THOMAS - UPI

She wrote a B-1 story last week suggesting that the bomber would be approved, based on the impressions of visitors with Carter. She follows the Mideast closely and her press conference questions are usually on the Mideast, arms or SALT.

She has lately been much warmer towards you, after initial suspicion of you and your staff's newness and Southernness. She is of Syrian descent, is quite proud of that heritage, and is particularly pleased about your human rights stand -- there has apparently been some trouble in that area among her ancestors -- also pleased by more "even-handed" approach to the Mideast.

ED WALSH - Washington Post

He wrote a B-1 story in last Thursday's paper suggesting that Carter would approve the bomber.

Walsh, who grew up and went to college in Texas, is a young reporter who has done well at The Post. He covered the last year or so of the Ford Administration, and covered so little of the Carter campaign that he never really got to know you.

Blumenthal Consumer Bank Memo

I concur with Mike's recommendation, with one observation: if you are to telephone Reuss and involve your own credibility, I would do so only with the understanding that the Administration will not later back down on the linkage issue. If you would prefer to hold open the option of backing down if our efforts with Reuss fail, I would recommend that Mike call Reuss and indicate that the President firmly opposes linkage and would be willing to help Reuss personally on the floor vote on IFI if the coop bank issue is placed aside. Bob Carswell says a Blumenthal phone call would be acceptable, but, of course, they would prefer your personal involvement.

Linkage is particularly inappropriate in this case because Reuss and St. Germain are relatively weak committee chairmen, and it would be widely noticed if they were capable of forcing this compromise upon the Administration. Their political weakness is further reason why you should be personally involved only if your decision is virtually irrevocable.

Frank Moore concurs with Stu.

THE PRESIDENT HAS SEEN.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT           The Consumer Cooperative Bank Act

On June 3 you decided, via the attached memo, to reaffirm a position taken in earlier testimony on this bill. In late May, despite our low-key opposition, it already had passed the House Banking Committee, under the leadership of Subcommittee Chairman St. Germain. It now is scheduled to come before the full House on July 13, and the outlook is unclear.

We have been struggling unsuccessfully to persuade St. Germain to adopt our proposed $20 million pilot project approach, rather than his $750 million ($500 million lending authority; $250 million for a self-help development fund) new federal bank concept. He has bitterly rejected our entreaties, and now has persuaded Chairman Reuss to actively support his position. Furthermore, Reuss informed us this week that he would not take the Conference Committee report on our proposed $5.2 billion authorization for the International Financial Institutions (IFI's) to the floor until we reached an accommodation with St. Germain. I spoke with Reuss about it, and Deputy Secretary Carswell met today with St. Germain, but they insist on a compromise from us.

We appear to have two options:

1. Strike a compromise on the Consumer Co-op Bank. Reuss has implied that $250 million of lending authority appropriated over four years, and self-help development fund authority of $10 million in FY 1978, $40 million in FY 1979 and additional amounts as appropriated in FY 1980-1981 might be an acceptable compromise funding level. In addition, he indicated that the bank initially could be part of an existing agency, e.g., Treasury, and only later might become independent.
- JUN 30 8 25 AM '77
TREASURY

2. That we reject the linkage of these two issues. In this event, I suggest that you call Reuss to tell him this, and reiterate how important the IFI authorization is to you. He is the leader on that bill and appears to be concerned about the votes when it is returned to the House floor. Accordingly, you might offer to help him personally with those votes if he will un-link it.

We cannot accurately assess whether (i) Reuss can deliver the votes on the IFI bill even if you authorize a compromise or (ii) whether St. Germain--and any votes he may control--are necessary to pass the IFI bill, but the situation is fluid and close. Obviously, accepting this kind of linkage sets an undesirable precedent and even though it may cause us serious problems, I do not recommend that you change your position.

MEMORANDUM FOR:

THE PRESIDENT

FROM:

STU EIZENSTAT Stu

SUBJECT:

Blumenthal Consumer Bank Memo

I concur with Mike's recommendation, with one observation: if you are to telephone Reuss and involve your own credibility, I would do so only with the understanding that the Administration will not later back down on the linkage issue. If you would prefer to hold open the option of backing down if our efforts with Reuss fail, I would recommend that Mike call Reuss and indicate that the President firmly opposes linkage and would be willing to help Reuss personally on the floor vote on IFI if the coop bank issue is placed aside. Bob Carswell says a Blumenthal phone call would be acceptable, but, of course, they would prefer your personal involvement.

Linkage is particularly inappropriate in this case because Reuss and St. Germain are relatively weak committee chairmen, and it would be widely noticed if they were capable of forcing this compromise upon the Administration. Their political weakness is further reason why you should be personally involved only if your decision is virtually irrevocable.

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY
WASHINGTON 20220

ACTION

SUBJECT           The Consumer Cooperative Bank Act

On June 3 you decided, via the attached memo, to reaffirm a position taken in earlier testimony on this bill. In late May, despite our low-key opposition, it already had passed the House Banking Committee, under the leadership of Subcommittee Chairman St. Germain. It now is scheduled to come before the full House on July 13, and the outlook is unclear.

We have been struggling unsuccessfully to persuade St. Germain to adopt our proposed $20 million pilot project approach, rather than his $750 million ($500 million lending authority; $250 million for a self-help development fund) new federal bank concept. He has bitterly rejected our entreaties, and now has persuaded Chairman Reuss to actively support his position. Furthermore, Reuss informed us this week that he would not take the Conference Committee report on our proposed $5.2 billion authorization for the International Financial Institutions (IFI's) to the floor until we reached an accommodation with St. Germain. I spoke with Reuss about it, and Deputy Secretary Carswell met today with St. Germain, but they insist on a compromise from us.

We appear to have two options:

1. Strike a compromise on the Consumer Co-op Bank. Reuss has implied that $250 million of lending authority appropriated over four years, and self-help development fund authority of $10 million in FY 1978, $40 million in FY 1979 and additional amounts as appropriated in FY 1980-1981 might be an acceptable compromise funding level. In addition, he indicated that the bank initially could be part of an existing agency, e.g., Treasury, and only later might become independent.

2. That we reject the linkage of these two issues. In this event, I suggest that you call Reuss to tell him this, and reiterate how important the IFI authorization is to you. He is the leader on that bill and appears to be concerned about the votes when it is returned to the House floor. Accordingly, you might offer to help him personally with those votes if he will un-link it.

We cannot accurately assess whether (i) Reuss can deliver the votes on the IFI bill even if you authorize a compromise or (ii) whether St. Germain--and any votes he may control--are necessary to pass the IFI bill, but the situation is fluid and close. Obviously, accepting this kind of linkage sets an undesirable precedent and even though it may cause us serious problems, I do not recommend that you change your position.

SUBJECT:

Proposed Ohio Summer Fair "Comments" Booth

Ohio Lieutenant Governor Richard Celeste has called me to request Office of Public Liaison cooperation in a summer comments program which he plans to initiate this year.

Celeste hopes to take advantage of the network of upcoming State and local fairs to reach out to people all over the state for comments, views and concerns which they would like to relay to The President of The United States.

He has asked students and others operating fair booths to use their own tape recorders to gather opinions. The taped comments will be logged according to issue by the Lieutenant Governor's Office and forwarded to my office along with the names and addresses of those commenting.

I have contacted the White House Correspondence Unit to arrange for a form letter of acknowledgement which we would send out to those people who have offered their views in this way.

I feel that this is an excellent idea similar in tone and effect (although only on a statewide basis) to your March radio call-in show and other "People Program" efforts.

I look forward to providing you with a breakdown on the comments we receive.

Ohio Summer Programs --

This would be a positive (and easy) extension of our people-to-people program, and it also is extremely useful to the President in Ohio by

1. Showing a Democratic executive presence, by-passing the Rhodes mechanism.
2. Assisting our friend Dick Celeste. Not only does it assist him in servicing the people of Ohio, but it clearly demonstrates a "special relationship" with Jimmy Carter. The "Ohio needs a Governor who is close to the President" line will surely be a big one in the Celeste campaign, and an effort like the one Midge is recommending serves to amplify that message.

Recommend approval.

You may find the description elementary; I wrote it that way purposely, so it could be understood by laymen.

I am also enclosing a pamphlet which describes the Light Water Breeder Reactor in more detail, and some photographs of the core being installed into the Shippingport pressure vessel.

Should you desire additional information, I will of course be happy to give it to you.

RE:

Executive Order Entitled "Administration of the Export Administration Act of 1969,
As Amended"

The Export Administration Act of 1969 was recently amended and extended until September 30, 1979. The proposed order makes the necessary delegations from the President to the Secretaries of Commerce and State, so that the Act can be efficiently administered. Certain authority is not delegated, e.g., the responsibility of the President to report to Congress concerning (1) curtailment of agricultural exports subject to concurrent veto by Congress, and (2) exports of crude oil from this country.

The order also revokes reliance on the Trading with the Enemy Act as a means of implementing export controls.

The Department of Commerce, which is principally responsible for administering the Act, has requested that the Executive Order be signed ~~by July 1~~ <sup>soon</sup> so that its authority will be clear.

The proposed order has been approved by OMB and Justice. We recommend that you sign it.

Combined Federal Campaigns Memorandum

Attached please find a Memorandum for Federal Employees and Military Personnel that Chairman Alan Campbell has requested you sign. As you will see, it concerns Combined Federal Campaigns (CFC) which is an annual effort among Federal personnel in over 500 communities to raise contributions for charitable organizations. Last year, over $70 million was raised through this worthy endeavor. Among the organizations to which the money has been distributed are the American Heart Association, The American Cancer Society, The March of Dimes, Project HOPE, CARE, and local United Way Agencies.

Previous Presidents have written similar memoranda. Presidential endorsement is considered important to the success of the program. The memorandum is reprinted in CFC literature and distributed to appropriate field locations. We recommend you sign the memorandum and forward it to Chairman Campbell.

MEMORANDUM FOR

FEDERAL EMPLOYEES AND MILITARY PERSONNEL

One of the traits we share as Americans is our willingness to help the less fortunate members of our society. Federal employees have the opportunity to do this through their contributions to the Combined Federal Campaign. This campaign, held only once a year in Federal buildings, includes local United Way Agencies, the American National Red Cross, the National Health Agencies, and the International Service Agencies.

Through one gift to the Combined Federal Campaign we can help these voluntary agencies provide help to those in our community who need it -- the aged, the sick, the handicapped, the poverty stricken, and the young. The same gift supports research programs which seek cures for our most serious diseases, as well as providing services for patients. And a CFC gift extends a helping hand to our friends in foreign lands. If you choose, your gift can be made easier through the use of payroll deduction.

While the decision to give and the amount of one's gift are, of course, personal voluntary decisions, I hope that each of you will join with me and other Federal workers in supporting your local Combined Federal Campaign to the fullest extent possible.

June 30, 1977

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: Secretary of Labor, Ray Marshall RM

SUBJECT: CHICAGO TRIBUNE Story on Public Service Jobs

As you know, the Chicago Tribune on June 26 published a front page story charging that CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) funds were being used to rehire laid-off city employees in Chicago. The article also charged that all people hired under this program had presented letters from City Hall to CETA. In some cases, the article said, former city employees were being rehired at salaries above their former levels, many in the $15,000-$20,000 range.

The purpose of this memo is to bring you up to date on our investigation of these charges. Prior to the Tribune story, the regional office in the Employment and Training Administration had begun a review of Chicago's hiring practices. On June 28 we began an intensive investigation of these charges and I will be receiving weekly reports on the progress of the investigation. A preliminary examination of the charges shows that the Tribune was in error on several key facts.

The Tribune article was primarily based on an examination of the first 163 people hired in Chicago as part of the Economic Stimulus program. These people were hired by the Chicago Sanitation Department to repair potholes in city streets. So far, our regional office has examined the records of 55 of these 163 CETA participants. We have found that 21 of these 55 were, in fact, former city employees. However, all of them met the appropriate Title VI eligibility requirements. They had been unemployed for a minimum of 15 weeks and their family

Ray Marshall
This explanation is not adequate - a) were former city employees given preference? b) Were recommendations from the city a basis for hiring? Don't use careful wording. Just give me facts - & report on corrective action
JC

Electrostatic Copy Made

income was no more than 70 percent of what the Bureau of Labor Statistics calculates to be the lower-living standard in Chicago.

These initial findings do not establish any violation of CETA regulations. However, the Tribune's charges do raise the possibility of two types of serious violations of the CETA statute. It is illegal for a prime sponsor to lay-off city employees in order to rehire them under CETA and it is illegal to use political considerations in filling CETA positions.

Former public employees--like other citizens--may participate in CETA programs if they have been laid-off or terminated from their jobs and they meet the other CETA eligibility requirements. However, a CETA prime sponsor, like the City of Chicago, cannot lay-off workers in order to make them eligible for CETA funds. Such "paper lay-offs" are contrary to the legislative intent of CETA which is to create new jobs, rather than allowing local governments to substitute Federal funds in carrying out traditional responsibilities. The large percentage of former city employees who have been hired by CETA in Chicago raises the possibility that "paper lay-offs" are occurring. However, we need substantially more evidence before a final judgment can be made.

The second serious allegation made by the Tribune was that CETA jobs were being distributed as political favors. We do not yet have any hard evidence that this is happening. The Tribune article was in error when it stated that Labor Department investigators had found that all 55 CETA participants investigated so far had been hired "after presenting letters from City Hall designating them for the jobs." In fact, Labor Department investigators have not yet found evidence that such letters are being used. If the Tribune's charges can be verified, we will have a clear violation of CETA regulations and we will take stringent action. Since the statute requires us to designate large cities as CETA prime sponsors, you do run some risks of political hiring. We are concerned about this problem and will vigorously investigate any charges of political favoritism in CETA hiring.

The Tribune article also intimated that there was something improper in CETA participants being paid salaries in the neighborhood of $15,000 or $20,000. A prime sponsor cannot use more than $10,000 of CETA funds to pay the salary of any CETA participant. However, the prime sponsor can supplement this $10,000 in Federal funds with its own money if it chooses to do so. In high-wage cities like Chicago, where most public employees make over $10,000, it is common practice to supplement CETA funds with local funds in order to pay the prevailing wage. The Tribune article did not claim that more than $10,000 in Federal funds was being paid to any CETA participants. Moreover, our investigation has found no evidence that this $10,000 ceiling is being violated in Chicago.

The Labor Department has a range of weapons to use against prime sponsors who violate CETA regulations. For example, a prime sponsor can be required to reimburse CETA for all illegally spent funds. Theoretically, a prime sponsor's CETA grant could also be terminated and an alternate prime sponsor designated. This, however, is the most severe remedy available under the law and I hope that we would not need to use it in this case.

On June 28, Chicago Mayor Bilandic and his manpower director Sam Bernstein held a joint press conference to respond to the Tribune's charges. Bilandic denied that there had been any wrong-doing.

I will keep you informed on the progress of our investigation of the situation in Chicago.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Re: Use of CETA Money by City of Chicago

This inquiry was provoked by an article that appeared in the Chicago Tribune on June 26, 1977. The article charged that the City of Chicago had misused Federal money that had been allocated to it by the Department of Labor under Title VI of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 ("CETA").

Under Title VI the Department of Labor provides certain "prime sponsors" (municipal governments, etc.) with payroll money for public service jobs. The program is designed to enable "prime sponsors" to create new jobs on a "transitional" basis for unemployed or underemployed persons.

The Tribune article (copies of which are in our files) states that many of the persons who have been hired by the City of Chicago under Title VI are former city employees. The innuendo of the article is that the city terminated these employees and then rehired them for the fraudulent purpose of making them eligible for CETA money. In addition, the article charges that political considerations have influenced city hiring policies under Title VI and that, with the help of Federal money, some of the rehired employees are now earning more than they earned before their terminations.

You asked this office to review the applicable law to determine whether or not the practices outlined in the article are lawful. Your concern was whether there is a regulatory gap that permits practices of this kind, even though they conflict, or would appear to conflict, with the purposes of CETA.

We have reviewed the law and have talked directly with the Regional Administrator of the Department of Labor who is responsible for administering Title VI in the Chicago area. Our conclusions are the following:

First, while existing law does not prevent prime sponsors from rehiring former employees, it does prevent prime sponsors from engaging in any employment practices that violate "maintenance of effort" regulations promulgated by the Secretary of Labor under CETA. The "maintenance of effort" regulations provide, in part, that a public service employment program under Title VI —

- (1) shall result in an increase in employment opportunities over those that would otherwise be available;
- (2) shall not result in the displacement of currently employed workers; and
- (3) shall not result in the substitution of federal funds for other funds in connection with work that would otherwise be performed.

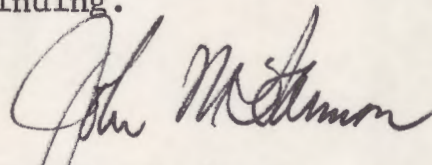

See 29 CFR § 99.35.

If the City of Chicago has displaced city employees for the purpose of rehiring them under Title VI, the city has violated these regulations, and the sanctions provided in CETA can be imposed. These sanctions are discussed in the memorandum that the Secretary of Labor has prepared for the President.

Second, CETA itself requires that any public employment program under Title VI shall be administered in accordance with a plan that specifically prohibits discrimination on grounds of political affiliation. 29 U.S.C. § 283(1). Political patronage is unlawful under Title VI. If the City of Chicago has hired or refused to hire Title VI applicants on political grounds, then a clear violation has occurred.

Third, there is nothing in CETA that would prevent otherwise qualified individuals from earning more in Title VI positions than they have earned in the past in other positions with the same employer. Moreover, CETA does not impose an upper limit on the total compensation that may be paid to CETA participants. The regulations provide that no more than $10,000 in Federal money may be paid to any one participant annually, but in the absence of "fiscal substitution" prohibited under the "maintenance of effort" regulations, the employer may supplement the Federal allowance.

Finally, I should note that, as stated in the Secretary's memorandum, the Department of Labor has found no evidence, or insufficient evidence, to corroborate the charges made in the article. The Regional Administrator informs us that the investigation is continuing.

U. S. District Judge - Northern District

1st Cousin

I checked with Both Judge Bell and Lamar Plunkett on Harold Murphy. Judge Bell reports that Harold Murphy is not the son of Tom Murphy, he is some distant relative. He (Harold) is a fine Judge and is the candidate of Senators Nunn and Talmadge.

In addition, I checked Harold Murphy with Lamar Plunkett who knows him well, Lamar informs me he had actually proposed Judge Murphy for nomination in the previous administration but for some reason it did not go through. Lamar highly recommends Harold Murphy and believe he would make a fine District Judge. He hopes you will go forward with his nomination. Bert Lance agrees Judge Murphy would be a fine appointment.

For these reasons, I recommend you send forward the nomination of Harold Murphy and sign the nomination document prepared by Jim King's office.

Attached for your approval is a proposal to provide an additional $50 million to farmers in flood and drought affected areas for soil and water conservation projects. This proposal will also provide an additional $75 million for cash to liquidate contract authority for the purchase of materials and supplies for the construction of soil and water conservation projects. This proposal will especially affect farmers in southeastern United States. Senator Talmadge plans to add these provisions to the Senate version of the fiscal year 1978 Agriculture and Related Agencies Appropriation bill with the understanding that a formal request for these funds will be transmitted by you to the Congress.

SUBJECT:

Bert Lance Memo of 6/29/77 re
Proposed Fiscal Year 1977 Supplemental Appropriation and Fiscal Year 1978 Appropriation Language
Change Amendment.

This proposal would do two things, one procedural and one programmatic. Procedurally, it advances the appropriation of $75 million for the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) by 1 year. This is made necessary by a limit on the amount which can be borrowed from the Commodity Credit Corporation, which has nearly been reached. Programmatically, the proposal would expand the ACP by $50 million to provide cost-sharing assistance for soil and water conservation projects in major drought or flood damaged areas. This would supplement the $100 million for this purpose you approved earlier as part of the drought package. About $26 million of the proposed $50 million would go to the southeastern states with Georgia to receive an estimated $10 million.

I concur with Bert Lance's recommendation but suggest that Secretary Bergland be asked to include this program in an overall reassessment of the Department of Agriculture's soil and water conservation activities. We are concerned that many of these programs, and ACP in particular, have become so loosely administered that yield enhancing practices are being emphasized at the expense of more enduring conservation measures.

For an additional amount for the "Agricultural Conservation Program", $125,000,000: of which $50,000,000 shall be available to liquidate such obligations for soil and water conserving practices in major drought or flood damaged areas as designated by the President or the Secretary of Agriculture and not to exceed 5 per centum of the amount herein may be withheld with the approval of the State Committee and allotted to the Soil Conservation Service for the services of its technicians in the designated drought or flood damaged areas; and of which $75,000,000 shall remain available until expended to liquidate obligations incurred under the programs authorized in the Agriculture and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1977.

This supplemental appropriation is required to make cost-share payments to farmers for the completion of soil and water conservation projects in major drought or flood damaged areas. Requests for these payments by eligible applicants have exceeded the funds available in fiscal year 1977 by an estimated $50 million. Funds are also requested to provide cash to liquidate $75 million in contract authority provided for in the fiscal year 1977 Department of Agriculture appropriation. This contract authority provides for materials and supplies for the construction of soil and water conservation projects. This proposal will increase budget outlays by $75 million in fiscal year 1977 and $50 million in fiscal year 1978.

The American Academy of Family Practice is the second largest national medical association with 38,000 physician members. It was founded in 1947 to promote high standards for family doctors, assume public advocacy in health related matters, encourage young physicians to enter family practice, and assist in providing post graduate courses of study for family physicians.

The Family Doctor of the Year competition is sponsored by Good Housekeeping Magazine and was devised by the Academy. The criteria were designed to identify ideal facets of the emerging new specialty of family practice, which is based in and takes its patient relationship overlay from the classic family doctor of the past. Criteria included interest in community and national affairs in general as well as those impacting on medicine. The Academy chose the finalists and Good Housekeeping selected the "Family Doctor of the Year".

Dr. Boyer was born in Kansas. Age 40. Birthday July 10. Married - three children. All education in Kansas. Captain, U.S. Army Medical Corps. 2 years at Basset Army Hospital, Fairbanks Alaska. ### III. Talking Points

The American Association of Family Physicians and the growing number of family doctors in our nation, have set an excellent example in making high-quality medical care available to people of all regions and economic classes. In their emphasis on preventive treatment, family-centered care, continuing medical education, and personal attention to the patient, the family doctors have shown the very qualities that we most need in a compassionate health care system.

You have already done much successfully to remove the bitterness and the divisiveness of the Vietnam War.

In addition, a number of recent small measures signal your feeling that the MIA issue should be laid to rest as a domestic political issue, even while we persist in obtaining a more full accounting from the Vietnamese. These measures include resuming case reviews, denying the League of Families' members government subsidies for transportation to their annual meeting (this was declared illegal by DOD lawyers), and by your not attending the annual meeting of the League.

I now recommend a significant symbolic gesture to honor those who gave their lives in Indochina. As you may know, there was not a single unknown soldier killed in the Vietnam War. All remains of the KIAs have been identified. Hence, no unknown soldier can join those of previous wars buried at the unknown soldiers monument.

I recommend that you instruct me to develop plans for a suitable monument to the war dead. I think the planning for this monument should be done in consultation with Congress -- particularly Senator John Glenn, Chairman of the Asian Subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; Congressman Zablocki; Congressman Lester Wolfe, Chairman of the House Asian Subcommittee of the International Relations Committee; and other appropriate people from the Hill.

I would suggest that,
 IN ADDITION TO THOSE SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN SUGGESTED BY Dr BRZEZINSKI, CONSULTATION ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~
 ALSO TAKE PLACE WITH SOME OF
 THE MEMBERS WHO WERE VOCAL CRITICS OF THE WAR. THEIR ENDORSEMENT OF THE
 PROJECT, AFTER THE ANNOUNCEMENT, MIGHT DISCOURAGE SOME CRITICISM FROM THOSE CITIZENS WHO CONTINUE TO DISPARAGE THE MEN & WOMEN WHO SERVED IN S.E. ASIA. THE HEALING
 PROCESS WOULD BE WELL
 SERVED IF "HAWKS" & "DOVES" ALIKE SUPPORTED THIS PROPOSAL.

Senator Cranston should be consulted -
 (Veterans Affairs)
 Bob Thomson
 Senator Larson

I concur with recommendation to plan for a Vietnam War movement. We are not now in a position to know what funds we can request.
